George Lamb Trophy

On February 6th we have the inaugural 'George Lamb Trophy'. We like to see a good entry for all our competitions, but for this one especially so. George was a great friend to all of us and a wonderful club member. It's no exaggeration to say the club wouldn't be in the position it is if it wasn't for George. We are very pleased to announce that George's friend Howard Bagshaw will be the judge for the evening. Please do your best to enter one or two prints for this competition. The theme is Landscapes, a subject very dear to George's heart. Closing date: Monday 30th January.

Wolverhampton Roadshow - Tuesday 7th February

Last call (maybe) for contributions for our Roadshow at Wolverhampton Photographic Society. A 5-10 minute presentation, prints or PDI on any subject you wish. Please see Hilary Thomas.

Why did Victorian Portraits Look So Stiff.....??

We take high film speed and great image quality for granted these days but back at the dawn of the photographic era photographic film was painfully slow and required shutter speeds ranging from many minutes up to, in some cases, hours. For the Victorian portrait photographer, getting his subject to remain still for such long periods of time was challenging to say the least. The solution was neck braces. These, cruel looking contraptions would clamp the subject around the neck, hidden underneath his or her collar and preventing any excessive movement of the head. The result was beautifully sharp but unerringly characterless portraits of our Victorian ancestry.

I hope this doesn't give Rob ideas for his Monday night Practical Evening...!!

Thought for the Week

I will... always back up properly
The time you realise you should have backed up your images usually comes after a catastrophic disaster, such as a computer catching fire, memory card giving up the ghost, losing it in the washing machine, or even worse, a theft. Get into the habit of backing up your files (more than once if you can), as soon as is logistically possible. External Hard Drives are cheap. Use them to back up your pictures.
Don't put it off until it's too late. Consider backing up to an online cloud service too, so that you can always access your photos no matter where you are, and don't have to rely on functioning hardware.

Staffordshire Wildlife Trust 2018 Calendar

Staffordshire Wildlife Trust are already after images for their 2018 calendar. From bees to birds, gardens to nature reserves and living landscapes, they're looking for the special species and places you can find in our fabulous county.

Closing date 28th April 2017

BBC Winterwatch

Winterwatch is back on our screens once again as Chris Packham and the team return to RSPB Arne.
Chris Packham, Michaela Strachan and Martin Hughes-Games will be based at RSPB Arne from Monday, January 23 to Thursday, January 26.
One of my favourite programmes on telly.

Club Website - Members Gallery

As you probably know, there is a Members Gallery page on the club website. Each member can have up to ten images displayed. If you would like yours included please let me have your images either by email or on a flashdrive or CD. If possible please resize them to 1400x1050. Don't worry if you can't resize them, just give me the full-size image and I'll do it. As it's been quite a while since the Members Gallery was updated, if members with a current gallery would like to change any of their images please let me have their new images and a list of those they'd like removed.
